1. Introduction

In line with the strategic intent of the Department of Communities, Disabilities and Seniors (the department), Individuals has been designated as a funding area to provide support to vulnerable Queenslanders to improve their personal safety, enhance their sense of healing and wellbeing, increase participation, and strengthen their resilience and self-reliance.

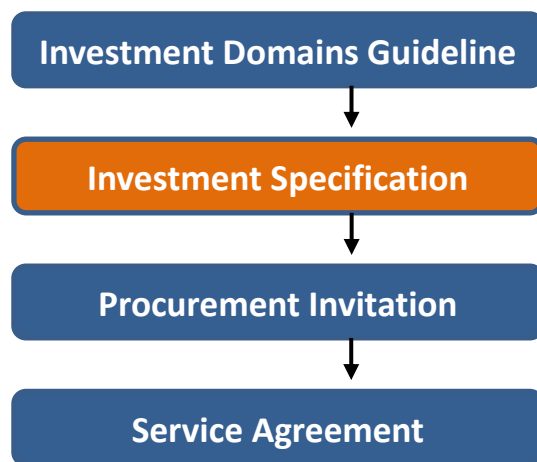

1.1 Purpose of the investment specification

The purpose of this investment specification is to describe the intent of funding, the Service Users and identified issues, the service types, and associated service delivery requirements for services that are funded under the Individuals Funding Area.

This investment specification is a guide for service delivery for Individuals, where all service types contribute to outcomes. The investment specifications allow for flexibility, responsiveness and innovation in service delivery, enabling the right services to be delivered to the right people at the right time.

Investment specifications form part of a hierarchy of funding documents of the department. Investment specifications are informed by the three broad investment domains described in the investment domains guideline. Refer to Section 12 for more information and links to the investment domains guideline and other associated documents.

The department's funding documents underpin the business relationship between the department and the funding recipient. The investment specification should therefore be read in conjunction with the investment domains guideline, procurement invitation document (new funding), and service agreement for organisations that are currently funded to deliver a service.

2. Funding intent

The department provides grant funding to a range of non-government organisations to deliver support to vulnerable Queenslanders experiencing or affected by a difficult personal issue and assist them to get their lives back on track.

Support may occur across the spectrum of investment domains of Capable, Resilient and Safe, and may contribute to one or a combination of the following outcomes:

- improved personal safety
- enhanced sense of healing and wellbeing
- connected to appropriate services and information
- reduced immediate financial stress
- increased overall resilience and self-reliance.

Individuals may be assisted across a continuum of support that provides direct pathways for individuals into the service system; provides specialised supports to clients; and also assists clients out of the system when support is no longer required.

As support for individuals is also provided through other Queensland Government and Australian Government agencies, funding is intended to complement rather than duplicate existing services and supports.

2.1 Context

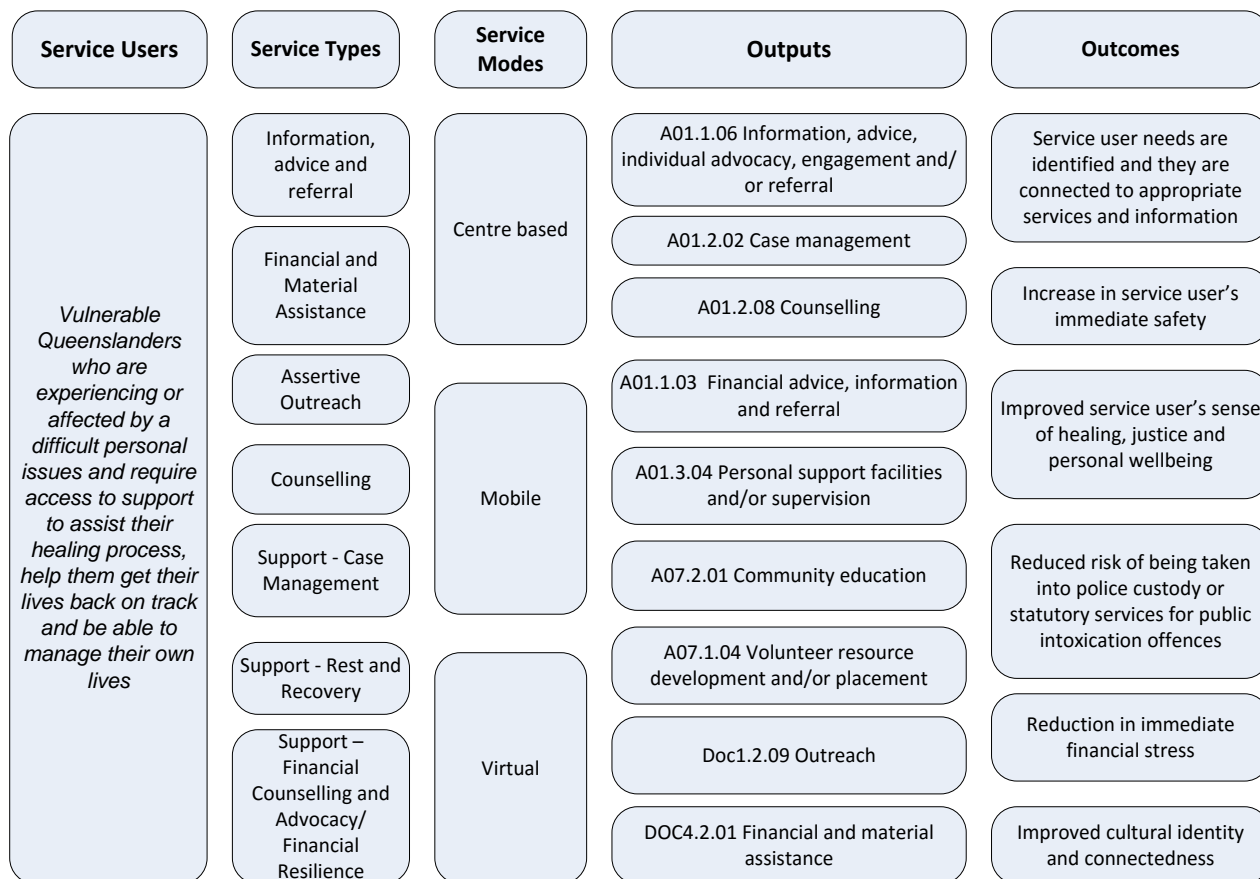

A priority area for the department in the 2015-2019 Strategic Plan is to improve the lives of vulnerable Queenslanders. In line with the Strategic Plan, the department funds services for individuals who are affected by a crisis, personal issue or trauma.

For some individuals, the issues they face may be chronic, complex, and multiple; however, others may require only a short period of support.

Support for individuals may be related to a particular issue or circumstance, and also relate to the individual's level of resilience. In both cases, the Service User determines the level of support they need.

It is important to note that individuals are not simply a discrete group of Service Users, but are also important and contributing members of families and communities.

3. Investment logic

4. Service delivery overview

The table below provides an overview of Service Users and service delivery types within the Individuals Funding Area. This is not an exhaustive list; the department may from time to time update this investment specification in response to evidence and changing needs, to invest in additional service delivery responses, or different combinations of responses. Please refer to the most up to date version of this investment specification (refer to Section 11 for web links).

4.1 Description of service types

Support services improve the capability, resilience, and safety of vulnerable Queenslanders, and provide a range of responses to support Service Users.

Access services assist individuals and community groups to identify available supports, and provide support to access the services they need. Access services may also assist in increasing access to community-based activities and events.

The service types in Section 7 provide details of the range of supports provided to Service Users under the Individuals funding area.

5. Service delivery requirements for all services

5.1 General information for all services

Services that are funded under the Individuals Funding Area must comply with the relevant statements under the headings of 'Requirements' as specified in the Service Agreement. Services should also have regard to the relevant best practice statements and guidance provided under the headings of 'Considerations'.

Requirements for all services are outlined in Section 5.1.1. Service delivery requirements for specific Service Users and service types are outlined in Sections 6 and 7.

5.1.1 Requirements for all services

- Funded organisations will operate with low or no entry requirements for Service Users, for example:
 - access and level of service should not be affected by the Service User's ability to pay a service charge
 - rather than excluding Service Users with challenging behaviours, services must develop alternative processes for managing these Service Users (within a risk management framework).
- Where the funded organisation is unable to provide services to a person, due to ineligibility or lack of capacity, there must be processes in place to refer the person to an appropriate alternative service.
- Service delivery staff must be competent in risk assessment and safety planning.

- Staff must be appropriately trained and culturally and professionally diverse (where possible), and have the appropriate skills to meet the complex needs of Service Users.
- Funded organisations are responsible for the recruitment of appropriately qualified staff, provision of appropriate induction, training and professional supervision of these staff.
- Staff are expected to actively refer Service Users to appropriate holistic supports. As such, staff are expected to have access to relevant information regarding a range of services their Service Users may need to be referred to.

5.1.2 Considerations for all services

- Mechanisms should be in place to allow meaningful Service User participation in service planning, design and evaluation.
- Strategies should be developed and regularly used to determine effectiveness and appropriateness of the service delivery model.
- Services should demonstrate a high level of coordination with other services and agencies (e.g. health services, legal and court services, Queensland Police Service) that may also provide immediate and ongoing support to individuals.

6. Service delivery requirements for specific Service Users

6.1.2 Considerations — Adults affected by alcohol

Staff and volunteers will be provided with support and full training on the objectives of the program, referral pathways, protocols and accredited first aid qualifications. Any volunteers will be appropriately screened and supervised. Paid staff and volunteers will be expected to commit to a documented code of conduct.

Purpose of funding

The purpose of funding is for Indigenous men to address, resolve and/or build resilience to the underlying causal factors which lead them to consume alcohol (and other substances). To change negative behaviour which affects their individual health, wellbeing and health of their families and community. These men will be assisted to change their harmful and/or abusive behaviour.

6.8.1 Requirements — Men who are affected by alcohol and/or who perpetrate domestic and family violence (Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander men)

The funded organisation will:

- operate with a harm-minimisation framework with a focus on harm reduction
- encourage client consultation and participation through development of culturally appropriate service delivery models

 - deliver services which complement existing services for women, particularly those services responding to domestic and family violence
 - eliminate duplication of activities
 - deliver holistic, integrated responses and supports for clients.
- actively participate in local plans and strategies to address community safety
- actively participate in any local collaborative, integrated service system plans or strategies to improve client outcomes
- be flexible and provide differential responses – including reallocation of resources to do so – as required to address issues identified by the local community which may be affecting the wellbeing and safety of the community.

6.8.2 Considerations — Men who are affected by alcohol and/or who perpetrate domestic and family violence (Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander men)

- In considering a service model, research indicates that services achieve some level of success through community acceptance with participation including targets for change that are community-identified and community-led.
- Additionally, any services that support men to address harmful levels of alcohol consumption and domestic and family violence (including to take responsibility as perpetrators of violence), should also consider the requirements for holistic, integrated and potentially differential responses that work with all family members and which complement already established services for victims, perpetrators and children.

7. Service delivery requirements for specific Service Types

7.1 Access — Information, advice and referral (T103)

Services that assist Service Users and community members to make informed decisions about, or be connected to, the services and support they need. These responses are an important aspect of both prevention and early intervention approaches and may involve preliminary needs identification for the purpose of identifying appropriate service and support options.

An assisted referral is intended to actively link Service Users to appropriate services. Referrals may provide Service Users access to localised universal community support services, and/or function as a gateway to accessing more specialised support services. An assisted referral includes:

- initial verbal contact with the agency receiving the referral
- discussion with receiving agency about referral requirements
- provision of an (anticipated) appointment time
- forwarding appropriate documentation to receiving agency
- following-up with receiving agency regarding the progress of referral.

Information, advice and referral is not intended to be ongoing contact with a Service User, but rather an entry point to other services they may require.

7.1.1 Requirements — Information advice and referral

- Information, advice and referral services are intended to provide Service Users with information about the range of services available to them, advice regarding the range of services that may respond to their needs, and active support to ensure their successful referral to these services.
- Some Service Users may be clear about the type of information they require. Other Service Users may need assistance to identify the range of services and responses relevant to their needs. For these Service Users, services may need to undertake a preliminary needs identification process.
- Preliminary needs identification is intended to: assist in determining the range and severity of the Service User's needs and risk factors; ensure that any advice provided is personalised and tailored to the Service User's situation, support needs and support goals; and enable the successful linking of a Service User to services identified as suitable for their needs.
- Information, advice and referral should always be accurate and aligned with best practice and expert knowledge of the service delivery area for which the service is funded. Good advice explains legislation, regulations and processes that may apply.
- Information should be provided to Service Users in a timely and accurate manner, and explained in a way the Service User is most likely to understand. In order for information to be understood by Service Users, information may need to be provided in a range of ways. Some information may be given verbally, while other information may need to be presented as printed material or electronically as an online resource.
- Where appropriate a combination of verbal and written information may be required. In order for information to be understood, some Service Users may need assistance through an interpreter, or translated written material.
- Staff providing information and referral services to people should possess excellent customer service skills, outstanding communication skills and be able to effectively engage with a diverse range of community members. Staff should also be highly skilled in quickly identifying a person's needs and matching their needs to relevant information sources.

7.1.2 Considerations — Information advice and referral

- Funded organisations providing information, advice and referral to Service Users are responsible for ensuring that all sources are up-to-date and accurate.
- Funded organisations are responsible for the recruitment of appropriately qualified staff, provision of appropriate induction, training and professional supervision of these staff.

7.2 Support — Case management (T314)

Case management is a collaborative, client-centred process aimed at empowering whilst working with Service Users to effectively meet their individual needs, increasing their self-reliance and independence. Case management incorporates direct client service, based on identification, assessment and planning for their support needs, whilst coordinating Service User access to a range of other appropriate services.

Case management can fall broadly into two categories: working with the Service User on specific goals that can be addressed by a single service provider, and complex goals that require a co-ordinated response across more than one service provider.

7.2.1 Requirements — Case management

Where brokerage is offered a case management plan must be developed to achieve identified goals. Brokerage must not be used where funds are available from alternative sources.

7.2.2 Requirements — Case management (Men's Services ONLY)

1. Data collection - The funded organisation for this service will:
 - record case management through group or individual activities conducted by Men's Service staff with service users.
 - gather client information which can be obtained from client notes , informal conversations and observations of service users during these activities.
 - document individual goals, activities and outcomes for the service user. The process will assist in providing a culturally appropriate service response to service users aimed at assisting individuals and community in reducing alcohol-related violence and alcohol misuse.
2. Service delivery - The funded organisation for this service will:
 - deliver activities in a culturally appropriate way with an emphasis on group activities that may be flexible and ideally lead to more focussed work with individual service users.
 - ensure service users are set achievable goals within realistic timeframes.
 - deliver programs that build resilience and coping skills in individuals and families and at the community level. The service delivery model may include work with peer supports, individuals and groups, delivering age group appropriate responses and activities to reconnect service users with family and community.
 - encourage service users through group activities to achieve goals and support them in addressing harmful behaviours that relate to alcohol use and violence, (including perpetrators of domestic and family violence) by building self-reliance and self-awareness and developing coping skills.
 - provide support to men to become warriors in their community
 - conduct activities aimed at addressing individual support needs to assist individuals in taking greater control of and responsibility for their lives; and at encouraging them to engage with activities to address individual needs.
 - link services with a range of other appropriate services, either in their community or visiting services.

- provide service planning that can be recorded through two activities: working with service users in group activities focusing on specific goals, and through one on one sessions potentially with more than one service provider to achieve more complex goals.
3. Activities - The funded organisation for this service will:
- ensure the support program has an overall balance across a range of activity types, and should not be limited to a single type (for example, a strong emphasis on purely recreational activities that are not linked to particular goals or outcomes). All activities in response to individual and community needs can include:
 - Supporting service users in their day-to-day interactions with other service providers and community members
 - Service planning should incorporate identified individual needs as well as emergent issues or needs of the community
 - Provision of or assistance to access specialist activities, programs and projects to assist clients to achieve goals through informal group activities
 - Educational activities about alcohol consumption, risks and harmful behaviours associated with levels of alcohol consumption
 - o Affecting the client's own health, well-being and safety
 - o Affecting the personal relationships and immediate family of the clients
 - Activities that address violent and abusive behaviour including domestic and family violence
 - o Recognising behaviour and the impact on others
 - o Accepting responsibility for behaviour
 - o Changing behaviour
 - o Appropriate use of Social Media (not using this resource in an abusive or proactive way)
 - Activities that assist personal development and growth
 - o Building emotional health, resilience and coping skills
 - o Building the ability to manage physical health and mental health conditions
 - o Developing general life skills including communication skills, literacy, financial literacy and budgeting skills
 - o Mentoring / peer support / team work and group responsibility
 - Activities with a strong emphasis on positive roles and behaviours in family and the community
 - o Promoting and developing respectful (protective/conciliatory) and responsible behaviours
 - o Improving relationships and parenting
 - o Parenting groups/skills
 - o Promoting positive role-modelling
 - o Promoting peer support and mentoring
 - o Raising awareness of the role of traditional male initiation (or contemporary initiation)
 - o Building understanding of the disadvantages of having a criminal history
 - Activities that promote connection to culture, family and responsibility
 - o Cultural and recreation activities
 - o Cultural information and education in addition to Aboriginal History
 - o Connecting traditional roles to contemporary roles and responsibilities
 - Activities can also include
 - o General service availability information, advice and referral.
 - o Include practical skills development strategies
 - o Horsemanship / stockman skills
 - o Diversion activities for young people

7.2.3 Considerations — Case management

- The case management process may include the following elements¹:
 - needs identification – is undertaken following initial contact, and is designed to capture a preliminary understanding of a person’s support needs. Needs identification intends to facilitate early action to link the Service User to adequate support before issues escalate into crisis. (An example of a tool enabling needs identification is the developed for the Helping Out Families initiative).
 - risk and needs assessment - a more in-depth process for identifying a Service User’s needs, strengths, risk and protective factors. Assessment and re-assessment may occur a number of times throughout the support period. An example of a needs assessment tool is the Common Assessment Tool developed for The Next Step.
 - support planning – documents the Service User’s support goals and identifies the range of support services required. An example of this tool is the Support Plan developed for The Next Step.
 - direct service and coordination – this stage involves the actual provision of practical assistance to a Service User, and direct support to access a range of relevant services best placed to respond to the Service User’s identified support goals services/resources needed. This may include counselling, practical support or other support as identified by the Service User.
 - review, closure and evaluation – this phase of the support period involves either a re-assessment of a Service User’s needs, strengths and protective factors, or finalising the end of a support period.
- Case management is responsive to fluctuations in Service User need, which in-turn affects the number of Service Users a worker may be responsible for at any one time. A case worker may have fewer numbers of Service Users requiring a higher level of support, while also supporting a greater number of Service Users with minimal support needs.
- Case management approaches recognise that the frequency of contact with Service Users will fluctuate in accordance with the intensity of their support need at any one time.
- Case managers may be required to utilise brokerage funds in order to purchase services/support on behalf of Service Users (e.g. family mediation, counselling).

7.3 Support — Assertive outreach (T316)

Assertive outreach provides an immediate response to individuals who may be at risk of harm and hard to engage or who do not present to required support services of their own volition.

Assertive outreach often provides the first point of contact for Service Users to a service. In this sense, assertive outreach is purposefully intended as a Service User-centred service element that brings the service/s to the (potential) Service User.

Assertive outreach functions as an important gateway to more individualised service elements and supports. Over time where appropriate, workers build a relationship of trust with Service Users and encourage their engagement and participation in more formalised support activities (such as case management). As such, workers require good knowledge of referral pathways and relevant support services for Service Users.

Assertive outreach is active and persistent, at times where relevant, may require a commitment to work with Service Users over the medium to long-term.

7.3.1 Requirements – Assertive outreach

- Funded organisations must provide a mobile patrol of some form (on foot or by vehicle).
- Staff undertaking assertive outreach must possess a current First Aid Certificate.
- First Aid Kits must be accessible for all assertive outreach staff.
- Staff undertaking assertive outreach must be provided with a mobile phone to use in case of emergencies.
- Staff work in teams and must never work alone on a shift. These services are funded to provide a minimum of two staff for each shift (usually one male and one female) to ensure the safety of staff and Service Users. (Please Note: this does not apply to cell visitor services)
- Staff must possess a good knowledge of referral pathways and relevant support services for Service Users.

7.3.2 Requirements – Assertive outreach (Diversion Services: Cell Visitor, Community Patrol)

Funded organisations must adhere to the practices articulated in the Guidelines, tools and resources for diversion services.

7.3.3 Requirements – Assertive outreach (Managing Public Intoxication Program)

Funded organisations must:

- Demonstrate a high level of coordination with Queensland Police Service and relevant human service providers, to ensure Service Users and their family and friends receive the supports they need.
- Employ appropriately qualified and experienced professionals to work with Service Users.
- Provide ongoing support to Service Users to help address issues that put them at risk of misusing substances in public spaces and at risk of entering police custody. This support may be delivered through a needs assessment and the management of a case plan.

7.3.4 Considerations – Assertive outreach

- Services targeting engagement with Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander people should aim to recruit staff of Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander background.

7.4 Support — Counselling (T318)

Counselling is a therapeutic process that provides a compassionate environment for individuals to express their feelings, be supported to understand, manage identified emotions, behaviours, and intra-and interpersonal relationships with more clarity and purpose. A range of different counselling approaches and techniques can be utilised depending upon the target group and nature and complexity of a person's identified needs.

Counselling may assist a person to cope with challenges and make positive changes in their life where necessary, including addressing practical issues. Counselling may also help them come to terms with a difficult situation and move forward with increased resilience. Ultimately, counselling aims to reduce a person's confusion, distress and conflict in the immediate and long term.

7.4.1 Requirements – Counselling

- Funded organisations must not provide clinical counselling responses (e.g. provided by a psychologist or psychiatrist) to Service Users. Service Users must be referred to appropriate clinical services if this type of support is required.
- The counselling process should include some of the following elements:
 - intake - a process of gathering Service Users' information to determine whether counselling is appropriate for the Service User and whether the service is suitable to address Service Users' needs. Data collected could include client contact and other relevant details; client history; reason for referral; and previous counselling episodes.
 - assessment – occurs during the initial phase of counselling and focuses on establishing rapport; identifying the Service User's presenting problem(s) and primary needs; identifying Service User's strengths; and determining the most appropriate counselling/treatment approach.
 - developing a counselling plan – involves determining approximate counselling duration, goal setting and setting achievable outcomes for the Service User. Such intentions are recorded and reviewed throughout the period of Service User engagement. Unlike case management support plans (which include supports delivered by the case manager and other services), counselling plans relate to the treatment provided directly by the counsellor to the Service User during the therapeutic process.
 - intervention – offers a range of interventions designed to decrease the Service User's confusion and distress; increase healthy coping strategies and problem solving skills; and find alternative solutions. Maintaining rapport is central to the counselling process and vital at this stage.
 - case closure – is a well-planned process allowing the Service User to prepare themselves for the final counselling session and beyond. The counsellor and Service User evaluate strategies taken to achieve goals and other successes, as well as the areas that did not go according to plan.

7.4.2 Considerations – Counselling

- Counselling approaches recognise that the frequency of contact with Service Users will fluctuate in accordance with the intensity of their support needed at any one time.
- The duration of counselling work can vary and is dependent on how the Service User presents, the complexity of the issue/s, and the Service User's readiness to change. For example, some Service Users may only require a single session of counselling, and others may require support over a longer period of time.

7.5 Support — Rest and Recovery (T322)

Rest and recovery services provide a safe, monitored and culturally appropriate place for intoxicated people to sober up; a reduced risk of harm from being intoxicated in public places; an alternative to being held in police custody for public intoxication offences; and support to access services that would help the person to give up or reduce drinking.

Highly intoxicated people may be vulnerable to physical and mental health problems. The service will supervise rest and recovery from intoxication, and frequently monitor clients during their stay for any changes in their mental or physical condition that could indicate the need for medical attention.

7.5.1 Requirements – Rest and Recovery

- Staff must possess a current First Aid Certificate.

7.5.2 Requirements – Rest and Recovery (Diversion Services: Diversion Centres)

- Funded organisations must adhere to the practices articulated in the Guidelines, tools and resources for diversion services.

7.5.3 Considerations – Rest and Recovery

- Funded organisations should offer Service Users a culturally safe environment; and a quiet, safe place to rest and recover with minimal stimulation.
- The Service User should be encouraged to rehydrate before leaving the service.
- Funded organisations targeting engagement with Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander people should aim to recruit staff of Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander background.

7.5.4 Considerations – Rest and Recovery (Diversion Services: Diversion Centres)

- Funded organisations are encouraged to provide food to Service Users when sober and before leaving the service.

7.6 Support — Financial and material assistance (T333)

Activities that provide cash, food vouchers, food parcels and third-party payments to Service Users experiencing immediate financial crisis. These services aim to prevent future financial crisis by referring Service Users to appropriate financial and social support services.

7.6.1 Requirements – Financial and material assistance

Funded organisations must not utilise funding for establishment costs, operating costs or salaries and will not report against funding.

7.6.2 Considerations – Financial and material assistance

Funded organisations providing financial and material assistance services aim to increase financial resilience by ensuring Service Users are referred to appropriate financial and social support services.

7.7 Support - Financial counselling and advocacy/Financial Resilience (T447)

Financial counselling assists vulnerable Queenslanders by enabling clients to access financial information, strategies and options suitable to their particular needs. This service type focuses on early intervention by helping clients to avoid or manage financial crises. Financial counselling and advocacy also assists clients who already have urgent and complex needs. Services provided will be offered free and confidentially.

Financial counselling services are specialist services to assist people faced with debt and other financial issues.

7.7.1 Requirements – Financial counselling and advocacy

Services must provide -

- information, advice, individual advocacy and referral to assist individuals with the management of their financial resources including household budgets.
- face-to-face counselling and problem solving to support people to take control of their finances and empower clients to self-advocate.
- complex case work concerning financial problems – including research and gathering information about referral pathways and advocating on behalf of the client to creditors, utilities, debt collection companies and other support networks.
- early intervention responses for clients before their situation reaches crisis point.
- responses for clients who require urgent assistance and have complex needs.

- referral pathways with a range of non-government and government stakeholders to respond to the needs of the client group. This would include referrals to providers of low-cost financial products.
- funded organisations will also provide outreach where required and financial counselling may also be provided by telephone or Skype where appropriate.
- financial counsellors are required to meet the requirements of membership for the Financial Counsellors' Association of Queensland (FCAQ) and will be actively working towards completion of the Diploma of Financial Counselling (where not already obtained). This includes ensuring Financial Counselling staff have adequate supervision, training and professional development and networking opportunities.

Financial counsellors do not perform the work of Financial Planners or Financial Advisors and do not provide therapeutic counselling.

7.7.2 Requirements – Financial resilience workers

Financial resilience workers are not required to hold a particular qualification, but it is expected that workers would hold, or be working towards, qualifications in human services or a related field and/or have experience in working with people in a human services context.

Services must provide –

- Information, advice and referral to assist individuals with the management of their financial resources including household budgets
- face-to-face counselling and problem solving to support people to take control of their finances and empower clients to self-advocate.
- community education activities on financial literacy and related matters.
- responses for clients who require urgent assistance and have complex needs.
- funded organisations will undertake activities/strategies to increase community awareness and promote the availability of financial counselling or assistance, for example community information sessions on financial matters
- demonstrate a high level of coordination with other services and relevant human services providers (e.g. health services, gambling help services, homelessness services, legal and court services) to ensure individuals receive the spectrum of support they need. This would include referral to providers of low-cost financial products.
